FROM CDCTC'S PRESIDENT:

Safety in Our Sport Bringing Difficult and Taboo Conversations Out From the Shadows

A little over a week ago, I was injured at a competition when I came off my horse. Fortunately for me, the injuries are all physical in nature, not terribly serious, and will heal in time. I also have a pretty detailed photographic record of what went wrong. It was, indeed, almost exclusively rider error, and errors that can be fixed, even at my age. I plan to be back in the saddle when I am healed, and look forward to a future with my new horse. But as I am convalescing, I am thinking hard about –and appreciating – the many safeguards we have in place in our equestrian sports to protect ourselves from injuries to body, mind, and spirit. There are of course the obvious safeguards: helmet regulations and standards, use of safety vests in eventing, trained EMTs on site at recognized competitions, guidelines to protect horse and rider in training and competition, standards for training, teaching and judging, and a general culture of safety consciousness that I think is normative in our equestrian sports.

But there is another area of safety that is coming to light, and equestrian sports are right alongside other sports in taking steps to safeguard our more vulnerable participants, particularly children, and often girls in particular. I am referring to the growing awareness that abuses of power, sometimes in the form of sexual predation and assault, can happen between coaches and athletes, and that vulnerable people can become silent and, inadvertently, acquiescent victims. The strong voice of the Olympic gymnast Ali Raisman was a call to action across all sports: "We are here. We have our voices, and we are not going anywhere."The image of this young and successful Olympic athlete calling out her abuser in a court of law has changed the culture of sports for all of us. A hidden, taboo conversation has now come out from the shadows, making it easier to name it, believe and affirm the victims, quit being co-dependent, and stop this form of abuse.

Over the course of my lifetime (since I was a child in Montana in the 1960's riding at a dressage school), I have had the good fortune to have ridden and trained under a large number of excellent coaches, both male and female. When my own daughters were riding, they also had trainers who were male and female. I currently work with two excellent trainers. My experience has been that our sport is filled with caring, professional people who take their roles as leaders, role models, and teachers seriously. But for those who might assume our field of sport might be a venue for exercising their desire to do harm: be forewarned. We are vigilant, and the USEF is on our side.

The recent decision to strip a late and highly celebrated trainer of several Olympic equestrians of arenas in his name and awards granted him in his lifetime may come too late, but it is a signal of a new attitude in our sport: We are not going to deny that sexual misconduct can occur in training barns and show grounds. We will not tolerate it. And we will do everything we can to make equestrian sports a safe space for young people to explore their abilities as equestrians without the devastating interference of sexual predation or exploitation. (The USEF now keeps a database of banned individuals and discussion of this, and the list itself, can be found at https://www.usef.org/compete/resources-forms/rules-regulations/safe-sport-sanctions)

In February of of this year, the United States Equestrian Foundation issued its new Safe Sport guidelines. These are in accordance with those issued by the US Olympic Committee. These were immediately adopted by the USDF. (USDF guidelines and lists can be found here: https://www.usdf.org/competitions/usefsafesport.asp) Rather than summarize them, I will, at the conclusion of this missive, include them in full, so we can see that they are widely distributed.

Cayuga Dressage and Combined Training is committed to protecting equestrian athletes at all levels in our region from sexual predation and abuse. A barn and a relationship with a horse should be a life-enhancing space for young people to develop and grow as human beings. No person should have the gift that is horses be shattered by the devastation of sexual abuse. We are blessed with a village of fine coaches and trainers, pleasure riders and competitors in our region, and we consider protecting all our youth as our own sacred trust. Young people in our sport deserve nothing less. And far from ebing just verbiage, the USEF and USDF are asking all participants in equestrian sports and competitions to undergo on-line training about sexual misconduct and mandatory reporting. From the USDF website: (continued)

"The USEF and USDF depends on the eyes and ears of its athletes, coaches, and designees to support its Safe Sport policies. It is requested that all who participate in equestrian sport become familiar with the content of the USEF Safe Sport Policy, the U.S. Center for Safe Sport's Safe Sport Code, complete the Safe Sport Training modules, and be mindful of its guidelines during training sessions and competitions."

From the USEF Safe Sport Guidelines:
"US Equestrian has partnered with the U.S. Center for Safe Sport and assisted in the development of the policies that support it. This partnership and the Safe Sport Initiative bring you consistent and reliable reporting processes, in addition to resources and support. Not only is reporting the right thing to do, it is critical to creating a safe environment for athletes and members. Sexual and non-sexual misconduct have two distinct reporting processes:

- All sexual misconduct should be reported directly to the U.S. Center for Safe Sport by phone 720-524-5640 or online at www.safesport.org
- All non-sexual misconduct or violations of the Safe Sport Policy should be reported directly to US Equestrian. Reports through US Equestrian can be submitted using the USEF Incident Report Form, or by email or phone to Sonja Keating, General Counsel, skeating@usef.org, 859-225-2045, Sarah Gilbert, sgilbert@usef.org, 859-225-2022, or Emily Pratt, epratt@usef.org, 859-225-6956.

Both the U.S. Center for Safe Sport and US Equestrian will accept anonymous reports, but please note that it can be very difficult to investigate anonymous complaints.
It is essential that all members educate themselves regarding Safe Sport. Not only to understand when and how to report, but also to recognize the signs in order to prevent abuse before it occurs. To further your education and participation in this movement US Equestrian provides numerous Safe Sport Initiative resources on our website at www.usef.org including the following:

- Safe Sport Training – FREE to everyone! Three modules that take just under ninety minutes to complete initially, with refresher training every two years;
- A banned list that identifies the person by name and reason for their ban;
- Coming later this summer, US Equestrian will launch our trainer/instructor/coach directory and registry to help individuals, parents, athletes, and others in our sport find the professionals within our industry who have completed the Safe Sport Training and accreditation;

The U.S. Center for Safe Sport has partnered with RAINN to provide a 24-hour victim services hotline, reached at 1.866.200.0796"

For sale: Frank Baines 18" seat, black, MW, wool flocked dressage saddle that has been well cared for and had light use. It was purchased new three years ago. There are swinging stirrup bars that allow for quick on/off of stirrup straps as they can be rotated up and away from the leather panels. The girthing system can be changed from the regular position to the point position depending on the horses fitting need. Also there is adjustment with a "V" billet strap. The only flaw is on the tips of two billet straps where a puppy put a few teeth marks in the leather. This does not affect their use in any way. Asking $1700. Springfield Equine Retirement Farm

At Springfield Farm, we cherish a horse's individuality and appreciate his history. Each is cared for and loved as one of our own. Springfield Farm is a sixty-five acre farm located in the beautiful Finger Lakes Region of New York and just minutes from downtown Ithaca and Cornell University's Large Animal Hospital. Our care is based on the premise that each animal deserves the best quality of life, including one-on-one attention and focus on individual dietary, physical and emotional needs. Springfield Farm horses enjoy the maximum turnout that weather allows and individual stalls for those days that aren't so nice.

Boarding fees include feed, blanketing and plenty of individual attention. Veterinary and farrier services are billed to the owner at cost. As the owners of Springfield Farm, we live onsite and provide direct, personal care for all horses. The size of our operation is small by design. Our combined experience and education will give you complete confidence in your decision to retire your horse at Springfield Farm. Please feel free to contact Lori Elrod at 607-351-1499 or lori.elrod@gmail.com for additional information, request photos or arrange a visit. Visit us online at www.sfetech.net/equineretirement

EQUINE SPORTS MEDICINE: performance enhancement through neurologic re-integration

Dr. Karen Gellman has practiced equine chiropractic and acupuncture for over 20 years, has an advanced degree in equine locomotion biomechanics, is an internationally recognized equine researcher and a featured speaker on posture and locomotion all over Europe and North America. She can help you and your horse become a more functional, integrated team.

Dr. Gellman is the only full service holistic veterinarian between Albany and Buffalo, offering acupuncture, chiropractic, homotoxicology, medical ozone, Chinese herbal formulas and nutraceuticals for horses and for companion animals. She specializes in Postural Rehabilitation, an integrative treatment that resets the postural control system, restoring neutral stance for healing, and relieving physical and emotional stress. PR helps your horse stretch forward, move more freely and connect more effectively with the rider. This modality is highly effective for long term injury rehabilitation, horses that have been rescued from neglect or abusive situations, and those who are sound, but not quite right, not as good as you think they could be.

Common problems helped by Dr. Gellman include:

- Neck or back pain
- Hind end pain
- Resistance to training
- Poor performance
- Uneven gait
- Chronic or recurrent lameness
- Slow injury healing
- Uneven foot size
- Poor foot quality
- Irritability/Anxiety
